

Hugh Coleman
Precinct 1

Ron Marchant
Precinct 2

Bobbie J. Mitchell
Precinct 3

Dianne Edmondson
Precinct 4

Denton County Commissioners Court Judge Andy Eads

News Release

Precinct 1 Commissioner Hugh Coleman (right) discusses safety options with Public Works Engineer James Gossie along Hickory Creek Road Monday. (Photo by Denton County)

Hickory Creek Road safety a top concern

Denton County – Denton County officials will add a guardrail as an additional safety step on Hickory Creek Road.

For years, Precinct 1 Commissioner Hugh Coleman took a number of safety steps on the road including rebuilding the Hickory Creek embankment, moving Hickory Creek Road five feet further away from the creek and adding rumble strips and signs to slow traffic.

“Safety along Hickory Creek Road has long been a concern,” Coleman said. “We have implemented a number of safety enhancements over the years and will begin immediately on our next step of installing guardrails on the straightaways, which adds to existing guardrail along the bends.”

The guardrail will run along the perimeter of the road within the county limits to enhance safety measures already in place. Residents should begin to see construction within the next few weeks. Watch for alerts about Hickory Creek Road construction on Facebook.

“We are responsive to residents’ concerns about safety along Hickory Creek Road after recent tragic accidents,” said County Judge Andy Eads. “We hope residents understand that Commissioner Coleman has installed several safety measures over the years and this is a next step on behalf of residents.”